

THE ARIZONA SILVER BELT

OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILA COUNTY.

Saturday, November 22, 1890.

A private letter brings a cheery piece of news from the State of Washington. It says: "Two horse thieves were hanged on Hangman's Creek the other day, and two more were drowned in Medical Lake last week."

"Woman is a delusion," we have heard The ones well schooled in worldly knowledge say.

And this is why it has to us occurred, The men still hug delusions day by day.

A year hence Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Iowa, and other more or less doubtful States will elect Governors, and six months later the Presidential candidates will be nominated. Lots of fun is in store for the country in the near future.

The manufacture of aluminum is slowly coming down to a practical commercial basis. The Pittsburgh Reduction Company turns out 3,000 pounds a week, and sells it for $2 a pound. The company is behind its orders, and is increasing its plant.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Mr. Ticks. Adam was certainly in great luck.

Miss Wickles. How was that? Mr. Ticks. Why when he got a wife he had only to give up a rib; and now it takes all the backbone a man has just to think of getting married.—Boston Courier.

Wooden pulp, which is prepared to be mixed with rags in the manufacture of white paper, is said to be largely used in the manufacture of flour which is ordered by contractors for furnishing Indian rations, and not a little of the same material is said to enter into the cheap bread sold to the poor Italian and Hebrew districts of New York.

Five years ago platinum was seldom used in this country, being employed only in the evaporating stills for the concentration of sulphuric acid and in the manufacture of jewelry. It was then to be bought in the market for $3 and $5 an ounce. A year ago it advanced to $8 an ounce, six months ago it had increased to $14, and it has now gone up to $20, which is only a few cents less than gold quotation.—Electrical Review.

The French sea-going torpedo boat Courrier is credited in Lloyd's Register with a maximum speed of 23.2 knots an hour. The torpedo boat Adler, constructed in Germany for the Russian Black Sea fleet is described by the Russian papers as the fastest war vessel afloat, having attained during its trial trip a speed of 26.55 knots. Three gunboats, one of which is finished, are being constructed in German shipyards for the Baltic fleet, which will be almost as fast as the Adler.

A correspondent writes from Cincinnati that diphtheria may be prevented in the following manner: "On a greater or less sensation of pain in the throat, which often occurs from severe or even slight colds after the individual has been exposed to drafts from open doors or windows, take a small quantity of clean cotton and pack it well into the ears, so as to prevent the passage of air to the glands. It will instantly give relief, and nature will do the rest. By putting your fingers in your ears for a moment you may readily convince yourself of what the cotton will do if kept in place for any considerable time."

A report is current at Washington that the Louisiana Lottery Company will divide up a big surplus, wind up its affairs and dissolve. A good deal of credence is given to this report by the Post Office authorities. The action of the Adams Express Company is the latest blow to the lottery. The United States and the Adams have determined not to handle any lottery business. Other express companies will speedily follow. Col Rathbone, Chief of Post Office Inspectors, said to-day that he did not see how it was possible for the company to continue with both the Post Office and the Express Companies closed against it. The surplus to be divided among stockholders is between $5,000,000 and $7,000,000, according to common rumor.

The experiment of the Washington D. C. Post office in mounting mail collectors on bicycles has proven successful. After several months' trial with rented machines the office has purchased outright a number of bicycles of uniform pattern. A regular system of bicycle collections has been arranged. Bicycles have almost entirely displaced the one-horse carts for collections, except in the suburbs and in the heart of the business section, where the collections are too heavy for the wheelmen. There are now in all twenty-four mounted collectors, and the hours of duty are from 5 a. m. to 9 p. m., the force of men being divided up into two reliefs, so that not one, of course, has to work all the time.

It has been the experience at the Washington Post Office that two men on wheels, can do the work of three men on foot. The new system is a success and evidently com-

A TERRIBLE REVENGE.

The Veritains were Russian nobles of enormous wealth and power. Paul held a high office in court. One night glittering with jewels and orders, the young Prince, who was one of the handsomest men in Russia, danced in a quadrille opposite the Empress. As she passed him in the dance she fancied that his eyes scanned her gross figure with covert amusement. After the quadrille she beckoned to him, and with a smile handed him her tiny ivory tablets, containing seven pages, one for each day in the week.

On the first was written: "The Imperial ball-room, St. Petersburg." On the last: "The mines Siberia." He read it; his face grew grey as that of a corpse he bowed low, kissed her hand, and withdrew, "taking," says the old chronicle, "his wife, the beautiful Princess Ivanovna, with him." He was heard to say as he left the ball-room: "My minutes are numbered; let us not lose one." Flight or resistance was impossible. The hold of Catherine on her victims was inexorable as death. Veritain was forced to remain passive in his palace, while each day the power, the wealth, and the happiness that wealth had given him were stripped from him.

First he was degraded from all the offices at court; next, his estates were confiscated by the Crown; his friends were forbidden to hold any communication with him; his very name, one of the noblest in Russia, was taken from him, and he was given that of a serf. Then his wife and children were driven out of the palace to herd with beggars. "On the last day," says the record, "Paul Veritain, in rage and barefooted chained to a convict, bade an eternal farewell to his home, and departed to the dark and icy North. He was seen of men no more."

Emperor William's speech at the opening of the Diet of Prussia gives assurance of the continuance of preservation of peace, and recommends legislation in the interest of the workmen and for the promotion of industrial reforms.

This year the U. S. Government will spend about $7,000,000, in educating and maintaining the different tribes of Indians.

Salvation by Proxy by Means of Baptism for the Dead.

Baptism for the dead is one of the peculiar ordinances of Mormonism. It illustrates well the extreme realism to which these people carry their religion. Among the more devout there are many who have been baptized for their dead relatives. To do this they assume the names and go through the ceremony of baptism. It is a baptism by proxy, so to speak. The church sanctions it as the method for enabling those who died before this new dispensation to enjoy grace under it. Sometimes the Mormons carry the idea so far as to make the Gentile smile. John Schofield is a converted infidel who used to preside at Charles Bradlaugh's meetings in England. He says he has been baptized for thirty of his dead relatives. This required thirty performances of the ceremony. The ordinance is administered only in the temples. Certain days are set apart for each of the ordinances. Schofield went to Logan and remained there two weeks while going through the thirty baptisms. This man was an atheist of the most settled and pronounced type for many years in England. Yet he is today a thorough Mormon, and speaks of the mystic rites and peculiar ordinances with the greatest respect and confidence.

In going through the baptism for a dead relative the candidate must furnish the full name and the date of death or of birth. Both dates are better if they can be obtained. This is for the identification in the next world of the person saved. There might be two persons of the same name, but there could hardly be two persons of the same name and of the same date of birth or death.

The most remarkable application of the principle of baptism for the dead is that made by President Wilford Woodruff, the venerable head of the church. That indefatigable old gentleman collected the names of 3,000 of his ancestors and other relatives who died before the angel Moroni appeared to Joseph Smith. He went through the ordinance of baptism for the 3,000 dead. But not satisfied with that he desired to have the ordinance ceremony performed for them. Baptism is a brief ceremony compared with getting endowments. President Woodruff was an apostle at the time this problem confronted him. He had been placed in charge of the temple at St. George.

"When we commenced work in the temple," said President Woodruff, in telling the story, "I began to reflect: 'How can I redeem my dead? I have some 3,000 names of the dead who have been baptized for, and how can I get endowments for them?' I had none of my family there, and if they had been there they would not have been able to get endowments for so many. While praying to the Lord to show me how to redeem my dead the spirit of God rested upon me and the voice of the Spirit said to me: 'Go and call upon the sons and the daughters of Zion in St. George to come into the temple of the Lord and get their endowments for your dead, and it shall be acceptable unto me, saith the Lord.' This filled my soul with joy. I saw that it opened a field as wide as eternity for the salvation of our dead and the redemption of man. On my birthday, the day that I was seventy years old, 154 sisters at St. George went into the temple to get endowments for the same number of the female portion of my dead. This principle was adopted by President Young and adopted from that hour. Through the kindness of friends I have had nearly 3,000 of my dead receive endowments in the temple. Thousands of others have received endowments in the same way."

This redemption by proxy has been carried outside of family relations. President Woodruff has gone through with these ordinances for George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, and other Presidents of the United States who died without having had the opportunity to embrace the Mormon faith.—Utah Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
